

Haunted Christmas Toys

Saturday, 01 December 2007

According to paranormal expert Gina Lanier, who lives in New Orleans, a large number of toys are haunted in America. The energy of past owners transferred to the toys they used to play with. So far, Lanier hasn't found any cases where the toys have been haunted by anything other than the original owner. Dolls are passed down from generation to generation, and so it's the beat up ones with the chewed up noses and a lot of history that tend to be haunted. She says lots of times, but not always, there is a tragic event involved. Read more here.
